PORT

To be Bombarded With Greater Vigor

RUSSIA REJECTS JAP DEMAND FOR A SURRENDER

Havoc Wrought by Shells of the Japanese.

THE MIKADO LOSES 5000 MEN

Buildings of Port Arthur Razed, Hospitals Filled—China's Reply Unsatisfactory—War News.

London, Aug. 18.—The Russian garrison in Port Arthur, has refused to comply with the Japanese demand to surrender and the noncombatants in the beleaguered city refuse to avail themselves of the Japanese offer of a chance to leave the city. Telegrams issued by the Japanese legation this morning confirm the press reports to this effect.

The Japanese demand was sent into the besieged city on Monday night with the stipulation that an answer be sent out by 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The refusal means that the bombardment of the city will be recommended with more vigor than ever.

Japanese Lose 5,000.

Berlin, Aug. 18.—The newspaper Die Post reports today that in an attack on Port Arthur yesterday, the Japanese lost 5,000 men killed.

Jap Squadron Expected.

London, Aug. 18.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company, wires today that a Japanese squadron is expected there today. Japan, the correspondent adds, is determined that the Russian cruiser Askold and the destroyer Groszovoi, which are in Shanghai harbor, shall be required to leave immediately or else disarm.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Minister Grieco, at Tokio, cabled the state department today official information that the Russian commander yesterday rejected the Japanese summons to surrender Port Arthur and the also Japanese offer for the removal of non-combatants from Port Arthur.

London, Aug. 18.—According to the correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Chefoo refugees arriving there bring news of a serious condition of affairs at Port Arthur. They say that Japanese shells have ignited lighters in the docks which contained supplies of coal, resulting in a terrific conflagration. Many of the buildings have been demolished and the hospitals are crowded.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 18.—The United States and Great Britain have formally raised the question of foodstuffs as contraband of war, except when directly proved that they are destined for belligerent armies or navies. While uniting on parallel lines, the United States and Great Britain are proceeding independently. The American case follows the lines of the American declaration at the time of the Spanish war. It is in the form of a protest against the confiscation of flour on board the Arabia. Great Britain followed by raising not only the question of foodstuffs as contraband, but the legality of sinking neutral ships.

Information received here forebodes that Japan will decline to restore the Ryshihetel nor make any reparation, and that on the contrary she will contend that Russia, in sending the destroyer to Chefoo on an important military mission, herself became responsible for the violation of China's neutrality, which Japan at the opening of the war promised to respect to the extent which Russia did. Nevertheless, it is understood that Great Britain, as the ally of Japan, has advised her to apologize. It is believed that Japan realizes that this course will please the western powers, but that she will not follow it because it would mean a loss of prestige in China, where concession has always been translated to mean weakness.

UNSATISFACTORY

Is China's Reply to the Representations of Russia.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 18.—The Chinese officials replied to Russia's representations regarding the Ryshihetel, but her reply is couched in general terms, professing friendship and the desire to preserve the strictest neutrality. It expresses disapproval of Admiral Sah's inability to protect the (Continued on Page Three.)

TROUBLE

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 18.—The situation at Statesboro today, is still quite serious. Reports are coming in from all parts of the county of promiscuous whipping and shooting of negroes. The blacks are thoroughly terrorized and it is impossible to predict the outcome. It will be several days before the situation quiets down. The bones and charred remains of the lynched negroes were put in a box and addressed to President Roosevelt with this note: "You'll never eat with these negroes." Level-headed men went to the express office and took the box out and the President will not receive the gruesome relics of the burning. Mob spirit seems to prevail throughout the country. The governor has been officially notified of the names of the leaders of Thursday's mob.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 18.—"We shall have trouble with the negroes here just as long as they can't behave," was the remark of a leading citizen of Statesboro. That he was not mistaken was shown by late developments. One negro found dead by the roadside five miles east of town, his body pierced by two Winchester bullets; two negroes, one of the "old-time darkies" and his son, 17, shot in their cabin by unknown marauders, and half a dozen cases of flogging, was the history of the day. The scene of excitement has shifted from this city to the rich agricultural regions surrounding it. At Riggs mill, half a dozen miles from here, several well-to-do white planters met and deliberately planned how to rid their neighborhood of obnoxious negroes. It is not a race war, for violence comes all from one side. It is a determined effort on the part of a large class of citizens here to rid the community of a class of blacks that it is said have made life unsafe here.

ROUTINE

Business Transacted at Meeting of the G. A. R. in Boston—Black's Annual Address.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—(Bulletin)—General W. W. Blackmar of Massachusetts, was today unanimously elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic for the ensuing year.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—(Bulletin)—Denver has been selected as the place of holding the next G. A. R. encampment.

Boston, Aug. 18.—Between 1,300 and 1,400 delegates were present when the annual convention of the Grand Army was called to order in Symphonie hall. The feature of the proceedings was the reading of a letter from President Roosevelt expressing regret at his inability to attend the encampment. In his letter the president referred to the acquisition of the Philippines, and declared "that it is only under the American flag that the people of the islands can preserve the public order, the individual freedom and the national well-being." John C. Black delivered the annual address of the commander-in-chief and the reports of the adjutant general and quartermaster general were circulated. The business transacted was principally of a routine nature.

A RAGE WAR IN ALABAMA NOW FEARED

The Negroes Have Killed Three More People.

And Have Made It Known That They Will Avenge Rufus Lesseur's Lynching.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 18.—(Bulletin)—It is feared that a race war will result from the lynching of the negro, Rufus Lesseur, who entered the bedroom of Mrs. J. P. Hollis, Sunday night, and later was captured and confessed. It is learned that J. P. Hollis, son of Mrs. Hollis and two other white men have since been killed by negroes and that a pitched battle followed with unknown results near Selma, Morengo county. The negroes made it known in Selma that they are armed and they threaten to take revenge on the whites on account of the lynching of Lesseur.

Bank Resumes Business.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The First National bank of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., which was placed in the hands of a receiver June 27, resumed business today as an active national banking association.

STORM

Sweeps Over Camp of the Ohio Troops

TENTS TORN TO RIBBONS BY THE FIERCE WIND

Gov. Herrick Was Caught Out in the Heavy Rain.

MEN SHOCKED BY LIGHTNING

Chief Umpire Wagner Presented the War Problems to General Dick—The Maneuvers.

Camp Herrick, O., Aug. 18.—After a wet night and terrific rainstorm during Wednesday evening, the brown army of General Speaks brigade is expecting an attack from the army of the blue under General McMakin.

The umpires are out in the rain and are taking the "wet" with the soldiers. The problem to be figured out is for the first day one of outpost duty and skirmish work as far as any one knows now. The second brigade all Columbus and Cleveland troops, except troop B, "the governor's," were up at daylight, and at 7 this second brigade left camp at 7 a. m., morning the movement began. The and at noon General Speaks was somewhere near the McLane House. At the juncture of the roads, N. and O, the U. S. Cavalry, Troop A of Cleveland, batteries A of Cleveland and H of Columbus with signal company No. 2 of Columbus led off on the hike over the hills.

The Eighth, Fifth, Seventh and Fourth Infantry followed. Somewhere near Armitage the enemy is supposed to be keeping up. They have a premeditated strength and scouts report that a heavy force is behind the outposts. The Second brigade, the brown army of the day, has established outposts guarding the roads, with the idea that the enemy is in force somewhere near Armitage Roads. U. N. and O. are guarded and Governor Herrick is ready at division headquarters to rush to the scene of action should the troops get together. The first day's work from this angle looks like a "sparring for points" between outposts.

The country is hilly, full of brush and it is raining. The troops have had all the water and mud they cared for.

Athens, O., Aug. 18.—Hundreds of tents were wrecked at the camp of the Ohio National Guardsmen by high winds, which with lightning accompanied a terrific rainstorm in this vicinity. General Dick's tent division headquarters was torn to threads and he narrowly escaped injury from a flying tent pole. Governor Herrick was caught in his auto two miles from camp and was compelled to walk to headquarters through a drenching rain. Telephone wires were struck by lightning and switchboards damaged. Four signal corps men and a private of the Twenty-seventh infantry in the First brigade were shocked.

Colonel Albert Wagner of the United States army, chief umpire, presented the war problems to General Dick at division headquarters, who in turn will lay the problem before Brigade Commanders McMakin and Speaks for their solution in the maneuvers today.

LUTHER LEAGUE AT BUFFALO, N. Y.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Before the national convention of the Luther League in convention hall last night the Rev. R. B. Perry, missionary to Japan said:

"The Japanese are fighting a righteous war."

The statistical secretary's report showed that there were 756 local leagues, a gain of 83 over two years ago. The total membership is 49,571, a gain of $6,335. The number of junior leagues is 53 and the number of junior members 1,334, a gain of 1,171. Tonight a grand rally meeting will be held.

SEC'Y TAFT

Will Deliver Two Speeches the Latter Part of This Month in New England.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Secretary Taft and Colonel Edwards, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, returned to Washington from St. Louis. Secretary Taft has consented to make two political speeches the latter part of this month, the first at Montpelier, Vt., on the 26th inst., and the other at Portland, Me., on the 30th inst.

Over an Embankment.

Kansas City, Aug. 18.—Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific passenger train No. 12, which left Kansas City for Chicago, was wrecked near Altamont, Mo. The two day coaches were thrown down an embankment. The remainder of the train did not leave the tracks. Twelve persons were injured, two fatally.

HUNTER

Awarded the Certificate of Nomination For Congress Down in Kentucky.

Middlesboro, Ky., Aug. 18.—The Eleventh Republican congressional committee met here and gave a certificate of nomination to W. Godfrey Hunter, but instead of settling the difficulty between him and the Edwards faction it looks that the action will be but the beginning of a memorable fight. Only 11 of the 19 members of the committee were present, and they declared Dr. Hunter's majority to be 119. Judge Faulkner of the Laurel circuit court had issued an injunction prohibiting the committee from meeting here to make the count, but the injunction was disregarded.

Panic Among Hotel Guests.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—A fire which did slight damage in the upper story of a building at 167-69 Wabash avenue was the cause of a panic among the guests of the Palmer House, which adjoins the building in which the fire occurred. The smoke from the burning building and the uproar created by the fire engines in the street caused many of the people in the hotel to think that they were in danger, and they made a rush for the street. Several women ran into the street wearing kimonos and little or nothing else, and men in all stages of undress poured out through the doorways.

STORM

DID MUCH DAMAGE OVER IN ZANESVILLE

Hundred Trees Blown Down, Residence Wrecked, Buggy Overturned, and Several Injured.

Zanesville, O., Aug. 18.—A storm passed over the western and southern part of this city Wednesday and did immense damage to the residence districts of Brighton and Putnam. More than 100 large trees were levelled, countless chimneys blown down and small buildings were hurled from their foundations and reduced to wreckage. The fine residence of John Richards, in Brighton, was wrecked. A carriage in which Mrs. Naomi Telley, Miss Olive, and another woman were riding on Ridge avenue, was turned over and with its occupants thrown on the horse. All the women were injured, but none seriously. There was many narrow escapes. The property damage is heavy.

BELIEF

Gains Ground That Kidnappers Have Taken Boy Abroad

New York, Aug. 18.—The belief is gaining ground that the kidnappers of little Antonio Masolino, who demanded $50,000 have become alarmed at the activity of the police and have fled to Italy with him. The steamer Nord America sailed yesterday for Naples and Genoa. A few minutes before the gang plank was pulled in two men, hauling a boy between them, ran down the deck and boarded the vessel. The boy was crying bitterly and in boarding the steamer the men seemed anxious to avoid any scrutiny on the part of its officers. The police will have the ship searched at its first port of entry.

Still on the Trail Today.

New Castle, Pa., Aug. 18.—After an all-night search, Roosevelt Waite, the desperado, who shot and instantly killed Policeman Skidmore and seriously injured Policeman Atkinson, at Croton, a suburb of this city, is still at large. The militia and citizens posse are still on his trail.

BRAKE

Didn't Work and a Crash Resulted

FOUR KILLED AND OVER SCORE INJURED

Details of the Collision at Chicago Wednesday.

STRUCK BY A FAST EXPRESS

Motorman Stuck to His Post and Was Crushed—Train Crew Arrested.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Michael J. Ryan, motorman of the street railway train struck by a Chicago and Great Western express yesterday, died this morning in the West Side Hospital. Thus far the record shows five killed, 21 injured and two missing. Ryan had been in the service only four months.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—A full investigation of the collision between an express train on the Chicago Great Western railroad, and a train of three trolley cars, news of which was telegraphed to The Advocate yesterday afternoon, an hour after the accident occurred, shows that four people were killed, another fatally hurt and 21 severely injured.

The dead: Mrs. Frances Rautman; William Irving, died in hospital after amputation of leg; Mrs. Jeremiah Shuckrow, Danville, Ill.; unidentified woman, about 30 years old. Fatally injured: Michael Ryan, motorman of trolley car, skull fractured.

The distressing accident occurred at the crossing of Forty-eighth avenue and the Chicago Great Western tracks. The train was coming into the city, and according to some witnesses of the accident was running at a high rate of speed. Others and the train crew declare that it was not going over 20 miles an hour.

The trolley train, which was made up of a motor car and two trailers, was in charge of Conductor W. H. Condon and Motorman Michael Ryan, approached the crossing at a rapid rate just as the train came around a sharp curve to the west of the crossing. Ryan put on the brakes with all his strength in the effort to stop his car, but the brakes refused to work, and with undiminished speed the motor car ran upon the tracks at the same time that the locomotive came up. The car struck the train just between the engine and the tender. The motor car was torn to splinters, the car immediately behind it knocked over, smashed nearly to pieces, and dragged along the track for 100 feet. The third car was not dragged from the tracks.

All the members of the Chicago Great Western train crew and the conductors of the trolley cars were placed under arrest pending the inquiry of the coroner.

WM. A. VEACH

Newark Man Is Re-elected Secretary of Newark Water Works Association.

Va.; secretary, William Allen Veach, Newark, O.; treasurer, C. E. Rowe of Dayton, O. Columbus was selected as the place for next year's convention.

Senator Hoar Sinking.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 18.—The condition of United States Senator G. F. Hoar showed no marked change this morning. He is gradually growing weaker, however, and the end is looked for inside of 18 hours.

DEATH

Of Chief Justice Fuller's Wife Occurred Wednesday Night at Bar Harbor, Me.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 18.—Mary Allen Fuller, wife of Chief Justice McVile Fuller, of the United States Supreme court, died suddenly last night while sitting on the piazza of her summer cottage at Sorrento. Death was caused by heart disease. She was 55 years of age.

LUMBER YARD

At Cincinnati Destroyed By Fire, Entailing a Loss of $55,000—Firemen Hurt.

Cincinnati, Aug. 18.—The large lumber yards and mills of C. Crane & Co., on Eastern avenue, were destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $55,000. The fire spread rapidly and the entire department was called out. While fighting the flames firemen John Miller and Albert Dougherty were prostrated by the heat. Miller is in a serious condition.

ODELL'S SUIT

To Recover Money Lost in the United States Shipbuilding Company in the East.

New York, Aug. 18.—Governor B. B. Odell of New York, in his suit for the recovery of money lost in the United States Shipbuilding company, charges in his complaint that of the $5,000,000 in cash that was supposed to go to the owners of the constituent plants when they sold out to the combination $2,346,000 was wrongfully and fraudulently obtained by the defendants as their secret profit. Among the defendants in the suit are Colonel John J. McCook, Alvin W. Kreh, John W. Young, the Mercantile Trust company, James T. Boothroyd and Charles B. Alexander, head of the law firm of Alexander & Green.

Louisiana Republicans.

Washington, Aug. 18.—A delegation of Louisiana Republicans claiming to represent the "regular" organization of the party in that state called on the president to discuss the political situation. They say they are seeking a settlement of the factional differences among the Republicans of Louisiana, and wanted, they said, to lay before the president the actual conditions. After the conference they announced that the result was entirely satisfactory. The complaint that the other faction since the national convention has refused to harmonize, and has rejected proposals from their side with that object in view.

Fire in Cleveland Thursday.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 18.—Rise this morning destroyed the stables of the Independent Cartage and Delivery company, on Williams street. Of the 26 horses owned by the company 11 were burned to death. They could not be induced to leave the burning building.

INTENSE HEAT MELTS ASPHALT IN THE STREETS

Mercury Stands 120 Deg. in the Shade.

Already There Have Been 100 Victims and the Number Will Be Increased.

Madrid, Aug. 18.—The western provinces of Spain are sweltering in the heat. Already there have been 160 victims, and there is no doubt the number will be swelled. In many towns the water supply has been dried up and as a result sickness is on the increase. The crops too, have been destroyed in many sections. Yesterday at Seville the thermometer registered 59 degrees centigrade (about 134 degrees Fahrenheit) in the sun, and 49 degrees centigrade (about 120 degrees Fahrenheit) in the shade. The asphalt in the streets melted from the extreme heat. Eight persons were asphyxiated by noxious gases arising from melting asphalt.

WOMAN'S CLAIM WAS NOT ALLOWED

Superior, Wis., Aug. 18.—Judge Rynn, of the Federal court, has decided that a woman cannot collect a claim against her husband for labor performed. A. J. Winkels recently failed, and his wife, formerly a clerk in his store, filed a claim for $2,500, which she said was due for wages. Creditors objected to the claim and Judge Rynn sustained them. The suit will now go to a higher court.

RIOTING STILL BREAKS OUT AT CHICAGO

Men Mistaken for Non-Union Workers are Injured

FORCE OF PICKETS INCREASED

So Is Watchfulness of Police—Mr. Meeker For Armour & Co., Makes Statement.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Arthur Meeker, of Armour & Company, has returned from New York. He spent half a day examining conditions at the plant and summed up the matter by saying today:

"The strikers have lost their cause, and the proof of it is in the volume of business we are doing. We are shipping almost as much fresh beef now as we do in normal times."

President Donnelly spent a quiet day at the strikers headquarters and declared things "were coming their way," and he guessed they could hold out as long as the packers could, and just a little longer.

The force of pickets was somewhat augmented today, but likewise was the watchfulness of the police increased, and rioting and slugging occurred only in occasional places, as it has been since the beginning of the strike.

Mistaking him for a nonunion man, strikers clubbed Thomas Handy of London, Eng., and beat him almost into insensibility, before he was rescued by Dr. Wm. Kirby. By mistake he got off the train at the stockyards and was assaulted before he had time to explain his presence. He knew nothing of the strike.

A riot involving three hundred persons centered around Ogden Bryant, a negro strike breaker, who was being severely beaten when rescued by the police. Bryant took refuge in a shoe blacking stand, which was wrecked by the mob. Two stockmen from Iowa were mistaken for strike breakers and were severely beaten, one having his nose broke entirely.

NEGRO

Who Was Shot to Pieces in Georgia, Wednesday, Was Not Handy Bell.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 18.—Over half the members of the Statesboro guards, one of the two companies that were guards over the prisoners who were lynched, have asked for their discharges. Several criticize Captain Hitch, their commander. Captain Hitch and Lieutenant Griner have written their resignations. They too are very caustic. The negro found shot to pieces on a bridge eight miles from here is not Handy Bell. The body has not been identified.

World's Record Smashed.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The world's record for army target shooting was, according to army officers, twice broken by members of the team which will leave Fort Sheridan to take part in the competition at Fort Riley, Kan., Aug. 22. The high scores were made by Sergeant Lunsford, Second Infantry, 848, and Captain F. L. Graham, Porto Rican regiment, 845.

EXTORTION

Is Charged Against the President and Organizer of Building Trades' Alliance.

New York, Aug. 18.—The most sensational incident in the great building trades lockout and strike, which has thrown nearly 25,000 workmen into idleness, came when Philip Weissner, president and organizer of the Building Trades Alliance, was placed under arrest on a charge of extortion. When the labor leader was arraigned in court he was confronted by George J. Essig, a plumber, who charged that on Dec. 3 last he paid Weissner $1,000 so that work could be resumed upon an apartment house on Riverside drive. Weissner's counsel appeared to be anxious to have the examination go on at once, but upon motion of District Attorney Jerome it was put over, bail being fixed at $1,500. Sureties were forwarded and he was released.

ANECDOTES OF VEST.

How Missouri's Ex-Senator Won a Jack Pot.

AN INSTANCE OF HIS READY WIT

Used It With Crushing Effect When Interrupted In a Speech—How the Senator Lost His Teeth—A Gallant Impromptu Speech at a Fourth of July Celebration.

Years ago the late ex-United States Senator George G. Vest when a young man occasionally indulged in the fascinating game called draw poker, a game which we know is thoroughly understood in all its details in Clinton county, Mo., more especially Lathrop. Well, once on a time Vest had tried a case in a little county seat and received a large fee for clearing his man, says the Lathrop Monitor. So much money in the hands of the young lawyer was as tempting to the denizens as a cool watermelon to a hungry negro. The result was a game of poker was got up. The boys intended to fleece Vest and of course stacked the cards. They had no place to play in but a little shed that had no floor but some fresh dry wheat straw. It was a five handed game, and a dry goods box served as a table. It happened to be a jack pot, and Vest opened it on three queens. The cards being fixed, the other fellows had better hands and of course raised before the draw. Vest stood the raise and drew two cards. As luck would have it, he got the other queen.

The betting commenced and grew exceedingly warm. They would raise the young lawyer, and he would see them and go a little better. An outsider who stood in with the gang looked over Vest's shoulder and saw what a formidable hand he had. He held up four fingers, shook his head and in other ways tried to warn his friends, but to no purpose. He saw that Vest would break the crowd, so he lit a match and set the straw floor on fire and told them to run for dear life. That cool head which served him so well in after years and which never let him become rattled did not desert him then. With one hand he raked in the boodle, with the other he exhibited his lovely queens, and as he went out of the door, with his coat tail on fire, he said:

"Let her burn; the pot is mine!"

A Missouri paper revives an anecdote illustrating Senator Vest's readiness of wit and sarcasm. On one occasion, some years ago, the doughty senator used his gift with crushing effect on a man who interrupted him while he was making a speech in the Johnson county courthouse at Warrensburg, Mo., the home of his colleague, Senator Cockrell. The room was packed. Vest was speaking in a particularly happy vein when a Warrensburg editor who did not like him arose and asked him a question. It was courteously answered, and the editor followed it up with another and another. To the surprise of most of his hearers, Senator Vest kept his temper and continued to reply courteously.

Finally the editor asked a long and very involved question. The senator listened to it with the same attention as he had given to those that preceded it, but just as he seemed ready to reply, "and while," says Frank Frayne, who tells the story, "the audience was perfectly quiet, awaiting Vest's answer, a little yellow bearded leger came jumping up the aisle immediately in front of the judge's stand, barking furiously at him. As quick as a flash Vest turned and, pointing his finger at the dog, said: 'One at a time, sir. You are out of your turn. Wait till I get through with the other one, then I will reply to you.'"

According to the Saturday Evening Post, Mr. Vest had artificial teeth and was not at all ashamed of them; on the contrary, the relief that he left after he had all his natural ones taken out, many years ago, made him rather proud of the false ones. One day, soon after the artificial set was fitted, he started on horseback for a country town, ten miles or so from his home in Missouri, where he had to argue an important law case. It was a cold, bleak day in November, but he tried to forget the discomfort of his ride by thinking over the case and rehearsing his speech.

About half way to his destination he had to ford a stream, as no bridge had then been built, and was getting along finely, when suddenly his horse stepped off a ledge into deep water and had to swim for it. Mr. Vest did not lose his seat, but in the excitement of the moment he did lose his teeth.

As he was then only a short distance from the other bank he urged his horse on and soon landed. But what to do without his teeth? It was a case of no teeth no speech. So he tied his horse to a tree, removed his clothing and dived to the bottom of that almost ice cold stream until he found his teeth. He had to dive six times, but he got them at last—and won his case.

A large throng had assembled one Fourth of July to listen to an oration by Senator Vest, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. Applause hearty and frequent encouraged the senator. While the multitude was breathlessly waiting for the conclusion of a beautiful exposition of the government's grandeur in ennobling the individual a loud shriek was heard.

A father had been holding a baby boy on his shoulder. To quiet the restless lad he had given him a stick of candy. Playfully the boy had thrust his candy into the chignon on a girl's hat. He was now endeavoring to disentangle the sweetmeat from the fluffy headgear. In the struggle the hat was torn from the young woman's head; hence the shriek. Senator Vest was sorry for the girl, but he poured oil upon the troubled waters and brought blushes to the maiden's cheeks when he said gallantly:

"The removal of so pretty a hat has exposed a far prettier head of hair. Why, I know of some women whose hair would have followed the candy too."

While Senator Vest was speaking in the senate one day Senator Allison told this story about him, says the Kansas City Star:

"Vest was a member of the Confederate congress in the civil war. Some of his constituents alleged that, being an abolitionist, it would be just as well if he took a gun and went out and did some fighting instead of loafing around Richmond making laws."

"Vest acquiesced. He got a gun and went to war. His first engagement was a little affair in which the Confederates were whipped. They started to retreat, Vest went up to the front. He met a man from his own town in Missouri. 'Say, Jim,' said Vest, 'when you go back home tell those folks you have seen me in a battle.'"

"All right," replied Jim, starting away.

"And, say, Jim," shouted Vest after him, "while you're about it, you might tell them that no other human being will ever see me in another."

"All right," replied Jim, starting away.

"And, say, Jim," shouted Vest after him, "while you're about it, you might tell them that no other human being will ever see me in another."

CUPID'S COURT OF CLAIMS

By Epes W. Sargent

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

Paul Preston settled himself comfortably in his seat in the chair car. Then he carefully polished his eyeglasses and put them in his pocket. He had no reading matter with him, and he found that it rested his eyes to remove the glasses. To his near-sighted vision the scenery then became a blur. Like most absentminded men, he was given to introspection, and once the glasses were off the other occupants of the car ceased to distract his attention.

Staring fixedly ahead he began to speculate upon the probable outcome of the business arrangement he had just put through. Finding that the motion of the train was not pleasant he swung his seat around until he was riding with his back to the engine. Lost in thought, he never noticed that he was staring directly into the face of a remarkably pretty girl who had the seat behind him.

His steady gaze disconcerted her, and she, too, swung her seat about, but, with feminine curiosity, she could not help stealing an occasional glance around. Preston was not at all a bad looking chap, but the fixed regard of even a fine looking fellow became most annoying, and Ruth Vincent was glad when the call for luncheon in the dining car enabled her to escape the searching gaze for awhile.

Preston's stare was so steady and undemonstrative that she could not very well complain to the conductor, but it was none the less unpleasant. As the ducky waiter brought the first course of her luncheon she caught herself hoping that the rude man would not take his place opposite her at the table and so spoil the meal for her.

But Preston had no intention of visiting the dining car. He was not even aware of the call, so deeply immersed in thought was he. Not until the porter, in his perpetual cleaning up of the car, touched him on the shoulder did he rouse himself with a start.

"Yo' book, sah?" he asked, holding out a magazine. Preston fished out his eyeglasses, looked at the cover, and with a puzzled expression admitted that it was his. It was very strange. He did not remember providing himself with reading matter before boarding the train, yet this was clearly his. He replaced his glasses, dropped the magazine into his lap, and in a minute was again lost in thought.

For ten minutes he was left alone. Then Ruth Vincent, returning from the dining car, gasped to find her magazine appropriated. It was bad enough to be stared at, but for him to calmly appropriate the magazine, behind the covers of which she had been concealing her annoyance, was unpardonable. She leaned forward with an "I beg your pardon."

But Preston was in Cleveland, going over the details of his business trip. She raised her voice without avail and finally leaned farther forward and touched his arm.

"Eh? What is it?" he cried as he suddenly became aware that he was being addressed.

"May I trouble you for my magazine?" she said coldly.

"Why, certainly," he said cordially. "Keep it as long as you like. I shan't need it until we get to town."

"You will pardon me," she said acidly. "It is my magazine."

"Is it?" he asked. "Why, bless me, I thought it was mine. Yes," after a pause. "It is mine, don't you know?" and with eager fingers he felt for his eyeglasses. "Yes," he said again, after a scrutiny of the cover. "See, here is my name."

He pointed to a name scrawled upon the cover. Her lip curled with scorn. "It's a very unique excuse," she said, "but it happens that the name was written there some time ago, and I do not think it happens to be yours. The gentleman to whom this belongs is out west somewhere, and I had the loan of it from his sister. I am taking it to her now."

Preston suddenly became aware that the girl was very pretty. He sat up straighter and began to be interested. "Well, well," he exclaimed cheerfully. "I am glad that you are a friend of my sister. Lonesome work, traveling alone, isn't it?"

Miss Vincent gasped. "See here," she said decidedly, "you have been very annoying ever since we left Washington. This subterfuge of taking my magazine and pretending that it is yours is very clever, but I must decline to hold any further conversation with you. Unless you immediately turn your seat around and refrain from addressing me or even staring at me I shall appeal to the passengers. There are some men in the car."

The stress she placed upon the "men" made Preston wince, but he would not give up so easily. "Let me show you," he said, drawing some papers from his pocket, "that I am really Paul Preston."

"Will you turn around," she demanded sharply, "or will you force me to make a scene?" Preston sank weakly back in his seat and wheeled it about until it faced the forward end of the car. The Pullman was one of those built with bay windows, and tiny strips of looking glass were so placed between the windows as to enable him to see behind him. Preston watched the clean cut profile attentively.

This young woman interested him. He was not much used to feminine society. What with his self absorption and his nearsightedness he was scarcely fitted to be a ladies' man, and he had permitted his business to completely absorb him. Now he gazed his eyes to the glass and vainly regretted that he had found himself in a situation from which he was unable to extricate himself. His sister Mabel had been visiting in Washington. He must have given her the magazine and she in turn have loaned it to a friend. It would be easy enough to find out from her to whom it had been loaned, but meanwhile the state of affairs was decidedly unpleasant. He had been accused of flirting, a thing he most cordially detested, and this resolute young woman absolutely refused to permit him to make any explanation.

When the train reached New York he took one of the downtown ferries, going direct to his office, and it was not until dinner time that he met the members of his family. Then, to his surprise—and hers—he met Ruth Vincent formally. It was an awkward moment, and if he had felt ill at ease that afternoon his refuge was ample. Miss Vincent was profuse in her apologies, and he was elaborate in his explanations, and it was not until dessert was reached that they felt that a treaty of peace had been effected.

It was not until two weeks after that that the final treaty was entered into, and Ruth promised that she would become Mrs. Preston and see that his absentmindedness did not lead him into further trouble.

Now when he travels she accompanies him, and you could not induce him to lay claim to any periodical unless she first assures him that it is all right. He says that having made one very satisfactory mistake he has no desire to spoil the record. Ruth, though laughing, knows that had it not been for the contretemps he would never have noticed his sister's guest sufficiently to fall in love with her.

"Stonewall" Jackson.

In "The Life of Margaret J. Preston" the author tells us much about that lady's brother-in-law, "Stonewall" Jackson. His attention to minor points of conduct is shown in his manner of taking his Sunday nap. Jackson was at the time in command of a military school.

His long continued suffering from dyspepsia had induced a predisposition to drowsiness, which he was very likely to yield to when sitting for a length of time quiet or unoccupied. Especially in church would this infirmity beset him, although most strenuously and conscientiously resisted. Still he could not be persuaded to relax his military habit of sitting in a perfectly erect posture, thus rendering the unwilling nod all the more apparent.

Some one playfully pleaded with him to lean back in the pew, so that he would be less conspicuous and the cadets opposite him in the gallery would be in less danger of being injured by his example; at least, that he would cease to be a source of amusement to them.

His reply to this badinage was: "I will do nothing to superinduce sleep by putting myself at ease or making myself more comfortable. If, however, in spite of my resistance I yield to my infirmity, then I deserve to be laughed at and accept as punishment the mortification I feel."

Making Fire Indian Fashion.

"How do the Indians make a fire without matches?" asked a boy who loved to "play Indian." Most of us have heard the answer to this: "The Indians used a flint and steel, as our own fathers and mothers did a hundred years ago, and before they had flint and steel they used rubbing sticks." We have all read about bringing fire out of two sticks by rubbing them together, but I find that most persons look upon this as a sort of fairy tale, or if they believe it to be true they think it so difficult as to be worth no second thought. All woodcrafters, I find, are surprised and greatly interested to learn that not only is it possible but easy to make a friction fire if you know how. I have taught many boys and men to do it, and they make it nearly as quickly as with an old fashioned sulphur match. When I first learned from Mr. Walter Hough, who learned from the Indians, it took me from five to ten minutes to get a blazing fire—not half an hour, as some books have it. But later I got it down to a minute, then to thirty-one seconds, from the time of taking up the rubbing sticks to having a fine blaze, the time in getting the first spark being about six seconds.—Ernest Thompson Seton in Country Life in America.

New York is essentially the pivotal state. Judge Parker will also carry Connecticut, New Jersey and other states which for eight years past have been classed as doubtful.

The announcement is made that President Roosevelt will make no public speeches during the campaign. This would indicate pretty clearly that the Republican campaign managers are afraid to trust him. But it must be hard on Teddy to keep still.

There are excellent reasons for expecting the election of Judge Parker. He comes from the State of New York—the state whose vote still decides Presidential elections—and he will carry his state. He has done it before when a candidate for high judicial office, against great odds, and by the force of his personality, his character and his record he will do it again as candidate for president.

Hurt in Collision.

Peabody, Mass., Aug. 18.—Five people were injured, one probably fatally, in a head-on collision between two trolley cars on the Wakefield branch of the Boston and Northern street railway this morning. The accident was due to a misunderstanding on the part of the car crew. The injured: Harold Smith possibly fatal; George Moses, John Haywood Duncan McIntyre, George L. Stewart.

Criminally Extravagant Government

The Pittsburg Gazette, Republican organ, makes a most lamentable attempt to defend the extravagance of the Roosevelt administration. In so doing it makes a foolish claim that the expenditures of the government under Roosevelt will compare favorably with those under the Cleveland administration.

To this lame defense of Roosevelt and foolish attempt at comparison of expenditures under Republican and Democratic administrations the Pittsburg Post makes a convincing reply, based strictly on facts and figures. The Post says:

"Let us take up the expenditures under Republican administrations and the expenditures with the Democratic Cleveland in power. In the first full fiscal year of McKinley (1898) the expenditures of the Government exceeded those of the first full year of Cleveland (1894) by $89,775,442. In the last full fiscal year of McKinley (1901) the expenditures exceeded those of the last full fiscal year of Cleveland (1897) by $159,232,631. The last year of Cleveland exceeded his first year by only $5,832,853, while the last year of McKinley exceeded his first year by $75,392,052. That illustrates the tendencies of Republican and Democratic administrations. In the four years of McKinley the total expenditures of Government exceeded those in the four years of Cleveland to the staggering amount of $571,171,173.

"President Roosevelt assumed power September 14, 1901, and as soon as he became firmly established the increase of expenditures beyond the McKinley expenditures went up with leaps and bounds. It was bred in the bone. The total expenditures for the four years of his incumbency, actual and estimated, were $211,407,628 greater than the staggering amount under the four years of McKinley, though he conducted the Spanish war, and—mark these figures—greater by $482,024,862 than during the four years of the Cleveland administration. Roosevelt's first year's expenses exceeded those of the first year of McKinley by $107,942,248, and it has gone on ever since.

"The total expenses of the four years of Roosevelt exceed the total expenditures of the four years of Cleveland by the bewildering sum total of $583,600,000. Think of that, nearly a thousand million of dollars in four years, under the heedless, reckless, extravagant and jobbery administration of President Roosevelt. In excess of the expenditures by the cautious, honest and capacity to say NO administration of Grover Cleveland.

"We thank the Gazette for raising the question of comparative expenditures of Republican administrations under Roosevelt and under the administration of the Democratic party and Grover Cleveland."

BROTHER

Of English Ambassador and a Leading New York Lawyer Is Opposed to Roosevelt.

New York, Aug. 18.—William G. Choate, lifelong Republican, brother of Joseph H. Choate, Ambassador to Great Britain, head of the noted law firm of which the Ambassador is a member, and a former president of the New York Bar association, has made known to his friends that he cannot support President Roosevelt for election.

His reasons are identical with those presented in the formal announcement of the Parker Constitution club, which is composed of the foremost lawyers of the New York bar.

For reasons of delicacy growing out of his brother's official position under a Republican administration Mr. Choate will not make any formal announcement of his position, or take any prominent part in the campaign. He has, however, indicated to his personal friends privately that he has the strongest of convictions on the subject of what he regards as the disregard of the Constitution by President Roosevelt and believes that all upholders of the Constitution should support Judge Parker.

Mr. Choate's firm is one of the most notable in the city. It is a hundred years old, and has numbered among its members many of the most brilliant men of the New York bar. Joseph Larocque, one of the leading partners in the firm, has also actively declared for Judge Parker, and will do all in his power to bring about his election.

Mr. Choate was at his summer home in Connecticut yesterday and could not be seen. His views are very well known, however, among his personal friends with whom he has talked. Mr. Choate was formerly a judge of the United States Court.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have been the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when burns, sores, ulcers and piles threaten. Only 25c, at Hall's drugstore.

COLLISION

On the Big Four Thursday Near Cincinnati—One Man Killed, Four Injured.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 18.—One man was killed and four injured in a head-on collision of two work trains on the Big Four railroad west of Elizabethtown today. Engineer Patrick Mitchell of Indianapolis, was killed outright, and brakemen Frank C. Noonan and F. B. Wilson of his train and brakemen Wm. Welsh and Dan Gallivan, of the other train, were hurt. The four injured will, it is said, recover. Mitchell's train was eastbound and the other train in charge of Engineer John Quinlan, was going west, both at good speed. The cause of the collision is not known at this time.

BEST HOTEL IN ST. LOUIS—THE INSIDE INN.

Affords Superb Accommodations and the Greatest Convenience For Visitors.

Nothing finer in the way of hotel accommodations at any world's fair has ever been seen than The Inside Inn at St. Louis. It is situated right inside the World's Fair grounds and stands upon eminence 206 feet above the level of the city. It is three stories high, 400 feet wide, 300 feet long, has 2,251 bedrooms and contains a dining-hall with a seating capacity of 2,500 people for ever ymeal. Every modern convenience usually found in the highest class hotels has been installed in The Inside Inn. Rates range from $1.50 to $5.50 per day; European plan, and from $3.00 to $7.00 American plan, including admission in all cases. Rooms en suite with bath can be enjoyed at the higher rates. Range of price is governed solely by the size and location of rooms, all having equal dining-room privileges.

The hotel is under the personal management of Mr. E. M. Statler, the well-known caterer of Buffalo, and this is of itself a guarantee that the cuisine and service will be of the very highest order. The enormous capacity of The Inside Inn assures good accommodations for all—no matter when or in what numbers they come—but those who prefer to secure their rooms in advance can make reservations now for any period during the life of the fair.

Letters should be addressed, The Inside Inn, Administration Bldg., World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis.

OHIO BRIEFS

FUNERAL OF REV. MR. HEALY AT TIFFIN.

Demented Negro at Large—Knapp Must Die—Receivers Named—Workmen Mauled.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 18.—The funeral of Rev. Michael Healy, the oldest priest in the diocese of Cleveland, who was killed by a fall from the second story of rectory of St. Columba's church, Youngstown, last Saturday, was held here. More than 100 priests were in attendance at the requiem mass, celebrated in St. Mary's church, of which the dead priest was pastor. Bishop Horstman was celebrant of the mass, assisted by a number of clergy. The eulogy was by Rev. Edward Mears of Youngstown.

Scranton, Kan., Aug. 18.—A special train from Cincinnati bound for Colorado Beach, Cal., and running as the second section of No. 5 on the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, was ditched one mile east of Scranton. One person was fatally injured, five were hurt seriously and six others sustained slight injuries. Mrs. Robert Gray of Flora, Ill., had a rib broken and sustained internal injuries. She will die. Mrs. R. B. Brown, Westwood, O., lower limbs bruised and other injuries.

Demented Negro at Large.
Lebanon, O., Aug. 18.—This vicinity is greatly excited by reports that Robert Meally, a colored prisoner in the city jail, who escaped a short time ago, is wandering in the reservoir bottoms in a demented condition. It is feared if he is not captured soon he will do some injury to persons in that vicinity.

Knapp Must Die.
Columbus, O., Aug. 18.—Governor Herrick has announced his decision relative to the plea of Alfred Knapp for a commutation of sentence. He states that he fully agrees with the action of the state board of pardons. Knapp will be electrocuted at the Ohio penitentiary Friday morning.

GEORGE FOSTER PEABODY.

The New Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

George Foster Peabody, who was chosen treasurer of the Democratic national committee at the recent meeting in Indianapolis, Ind., has for many years been active as a Democrat, but is better known as financier and philanthropist than as politician. He is a member of the banking house of Spencer Trask & Co. and is an officer in a large number of influential corporations. Mr. Peabody has been particularly noted for his interest in various reform movements, his generous contributions of both money and personal effort in furtherance of education in the south and his faith in the industrial future of the republic of Mexico.

Born in 1852 in Columbus, Ga., Mr. Peabody may call himself a southerner, yet the most of his life has been spent in the north, for his parents removed to Brooklyn when he was eleven years of age, and that city has since been his home. As a boy he attended the Deer Hill institute at Danbury, Conn., but he went to work in a dry goods store at fourteen, and his subsequent education was obtained by taking literary and scientific courses at the Brooklyn Young Men's Christian association. After fourteen years in the dry goods business he turned his attention to finance and won national reputation in this field. He was a member of the Indianapolis monetary convention. In 1896 he supported the Palmer and Buckner ticket.

PRESIDENT CASTRO AGAIN.

Asphalt Controversy Directs Attention to Venezuelan Executive.
It is a rare day when the government of Venezuela is not embroiled in some kind of trouble under its present arbitrary executive, General Cipriano Castro. According to United States Minister Herbert W. Bowen, the Venezuelan government has acted with high handed injustice in the matter of the asphalt controversy now exciting attention. The minister intimates that there was collusion between the executive and judicial branches of the government in the seizure of the asphalt company's property and that this seizure was in defiance of the statutes of Venezuela. The asphalt lakes of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt company were seized by the Venezuelan government under the authority of an embargo or injunction issued by a Venezuelan court, by which a receiver was appointed for the property. The company has enjoyed a concession from the Venezuelan government, and it is claimed the procedure was illegal.

PRESIDENT CIPRIANO CASTRO OF VENEZUELA.

It is now about two years since President Castro had a lively revolution on his hands. Close on the heels of the revolution—indeed, before it was entirely suppressed—came the trouble with the allied European powers regarding unsettled claims for damages. War was only averted by the action of the United States in having the difficulty referred to arbitration.

President Castro is a swarthy complexioned little man with high forehead and short beard, and he is said to have considerable Indian blood in his veins. He rose from mulatto to be president and rules Venezuela by the power of fear. He came to the presidency through the overthrow of his predecessor, Senor Andrade.

Lack of Mounts.
Louisville, Ky., Aug. 18.—Social and amusement events predominated during the third day of the biennial encampment of the Knights of Pythias. The principal event of the day was to have been the annual review and inspection of the Uniform rank by General Carnahan and staff, but owing to the poor quality of horses offered by the contractors and the trouble in securing mounts even for the officers of the day the parade review was abandoned. Much disappointment was shown both by the public and the knights at this turn of affairs.

Cordon Drawn Still Closer.
Chefoo, Aug. 18.—According to news received here the Japanese line has been drawn still closer around beleaguered Port Arthur. The right wing of the Japanese army has penetrated to the vicinity of Pigeon bay, while the center has moved forward from Peling Ching, which is south of Shushiyen and two miles north of town. Chinese are authority for the above outline of the new Japanese positions.

Vaccination and Hydrophobia.
Washington, Aug. 18.—Consul General Guenther at Frankfurt, Germany, has supplied the state department official statistics touching the efficacy of vaccination as a preventative of hydrophobia. The substance of these is that only 1 1/2 per cent of persons bitten by mad animals after vaccination have died. The consul general says that the figures again show that Russia is the breeding place of hydrophobia.

Two-fifths of the population of the United States live on farms.

A Timely Thought

Fix your mind for a moment on the fact that stomach trouble and headache are symptoms of liver trouble and you will see why the so-called dyspepsia cures fail to do their work. You must remove the cause by regulating the liver before you can expect relief.

Dr. Kohn's Euro Syrup

is a vegetable remedy, gentle in its action and lasting in results. It induces digestion and regulates the liver, thereby putting the system in perfect order.

FIELD OF SPORTSTONE

WAS LOANED TO LANCASTER FOR WEDNESDAY'S GAME,

And Made a Great Record—Idlewild Won With Farrell in the Box.

The Idlewild baseball team are home from Lancaster, where they won two out of three games from "Jimmy" Outcault's hustling aggregation. The game Wednesday was one of the best ever seen on the Lancaster diamond, resulting in a victory for Idlewild 1 to 0. The lone tally was scored by "Rabbit" Taylor in the third inning. He was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on a neat sacrifice by Eddie Justice, and scored on "Big Bill" Farrell's timely single.

Only eight Lancaster men showed up at the field and Manager Driscoll allowed pitcher Stone to play with Outcault. The Idlewild twirler was in right field and did his best to beat his team mates. Out of three times up he got two two-base hits off Farrell, and in the ninth was put out on a long fly to the outfield. The game was errorless on the part of both teams, and each made seven hits.

TOURNAMENT

At Y. M. C. A. Tennis Court Is Progressing Very Nicely—The Results to Date

The Y. M. C. A. prize tournament is progressing very nicely. Only the singles have been begun, in which the first round resulted as follows:

Shaffer—"Eye."
Goodwin—"Bye."
Sparks—"Eye."
Nemeyer—"Bye."
Welant from Conley, 6-2-6-0.
Pine won from Doughty—default.
Garrison won from Cox—default.
Black won from Pinneo, 6-1-6-2.
Black won from Corkwell—default.
F. C. Wright won from Kinsey, 6-2-6-4.
Sutor won from Scott—default.
Burk won from Ebersole, 6-2-6-4.
Blood—"Bye."
Jones—"Eye."
Miller—"Bye."
Wright—"Bye."

The second round in the singles will be played off immediately and both the Men's and Mixed Doubles will be commenced. The Men's doubles will be a handicap contest. The men will choose their own partners and the tournament committee will handicap the different teams.

If there are those who wish to play in the doubles who have not yet handed in their names, they should do so within two days.

As both the second round in the singles and the doubles will bring out good tennis it is hoped that much interest may be created in this excellent form of sport.

Shot by Moonshiners.
Lexington, Ky., Aug. 18.—Deputy Internal Revenue Collector J. L. McCoy was seriously injured by being shot by moonshiners at the head of the Licking river. After a week's search he and two other men found a still in a ravine, and as McCoy was attempting to demolish it with an ax he received two loads from a shotgun, one hitting him on the head, the other in the back. A charge was made on the ambuscade and the moonshiners retreated before a volley of revolver shots.

Will Use Wine.
Washington, Aug. 18.—Despite the protest of the Christian Endeavor societies of Connecticut, the traditional bottle of wine will be broken across the prow of the battleship Connecticut when she is launched at the New York navy yard next month. On behalf of the Christian Endeavorers of Connecticut H. E. Spooner forwarded to the navy department a number of petitions requesting that wine be not used at this function.

Telephone Girl's Escape.
Postoria, O., Aug. 18.—Miss Nannie Francis, chief operator for the Citizens' Telephone company, narrowly escaped death by an electric shock. She received the full force of 550 volts of electricity from a trolley circuit. Her hand touched an electric fan and two of her fingers were burned to the bones.

COSHOCKTON

LOST THREE STRAIGHT GAMES
TO ZANESVILLE.

The Managers of the Team Will Bring Suit Against Prominent Citizens.

Coshockton, O., Aug. 18.—Zanesville made it three straights from Coshockton Wednesday. A sensation was created last night by the announcement that the baseball company will bring suit against all signers who guaranteed to support the team to the extent if necessary, of $5 per month during the playing season, and who have declined to settle for the last two or three assessments.

In all about 30 prominent business men are concerned. Score:
Zanesville . . . 1 0 2 0 2 0 0 0—5
Batteries: Farrell and Hensler; Lucas and Carson.

SLAGLE VICTORS WIN.

The Slagle Victors of Columbus defeated the Y. M. C. A. team Wednesday at the Athletic park by a score of 5 to 4. The game was devoid of features.

TATE CROMLEY

The Kenyon Athletic Star May Not Play Professional Ball Next Summer.

The story that Tate Cromley has been sold to Detroit was started yesterday in Cleveland and it brings forth a denial from President Rutschaupt.

Business Manager Navin of the Tigers took a look at Cromley the other day but nothing was done.

By the way, Cromley is not sure that he will play professional ball next year. He takes the Ohio bar exam in December and is thinking of plunging into active business at Mt. Vernon—Ohio State University.

Every one in Newark who follows athletic sports, knows Tate Cromley. For four years he was Kenyon's mainstay in athletics and has frequently been seen in Granville and Newark. As a ballplayer few excel him, and Manager Phillips has kept him in the game to get the benefit of his hitting. When he is not working on the slab, Tate is usually in the outfield, but on occasion he plays on the infield.

DETROIT CAR

OFFICIALLY FIRST MACHINE TO REACH ST. LOUIS.

Terrible Roads Met With on Closing
Day of Big Run—Cadillac
In Fine Condition.

W. B. Hurlburt of Detroit, driving a Detroit-built Cadillac, was officially the first machine to arrive at St. Louis, finishing the long run from New York. Hurlburt was preceded by a 24-horse power Pope-Toledo, which however started before midnight and was consequently disqualified.

The last day's run was the hardest of the trip. Rain in southern Illinois means almost bottomless mud roads, but even with this unenviable prospect Hurlburt started from Springfield early in the morning, determined to reach St. Louis the first of the party which had day after day been encountering all sorts of tough propositions in their cross-country run. Although had roads were in prospect the actual conditions were much worse than could be imagined. The roads were a sea of mud and 21 miles had to be driven on the low speed, while the driving wheels had to be equipped with chains to provide traction.

At Edwardsville, Ill., the party was met by Dr. E. M. Seney, the vice-president of the St. Louis Automobile club, and his son Eugene; J. W. Bemis, W. W. Gardner, A. Fehring, H. S. Turner, J. Bemis, E. C. Lackland, Jr., and W. S. Pope, Jr., who acted as an escort to this city. A great crowd greeted the automobilists on the bridge and gave them a hearty reception as they rode on their way to the world's fair grounds.

The car was covered with mud, and its occupants were badly recognizable, but he car went through in fine condition, the motor is running as beautifully as when the start was made from New York nearly three weeks ago. Practically no tire trouble was experienced on Hurlburt's machine, he having had two punctures on the entire trip, one of these occurring on entering Chicago during the parade. Rather than break the line of the parade, Hurlburt drove his tire flat for ten miles afterwards repairing and using the same tire the remainder of the trip, which is an illustration of the excellence of the modern automobile tire.

Hurlburt's entire trip was an excellent performance. The greater part of the trip the machine carried three passengers and made as good or better showing than the high power cars. Hurlburt's skillful driving has been the wonder of the entire party and many compliments have been paid him for the manner in which he has brought his car through.

The annual reunion of the Claypool, Miller and Fravel families will be held at Buckeye Lake on Wednesday, Aug. 21st.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Hundreds of Newark Readers Find It So.

The hustle and worry of business men,
The hard work and stooping of workmen,
The woman's household cares
Are too great a strain on the kidneys.

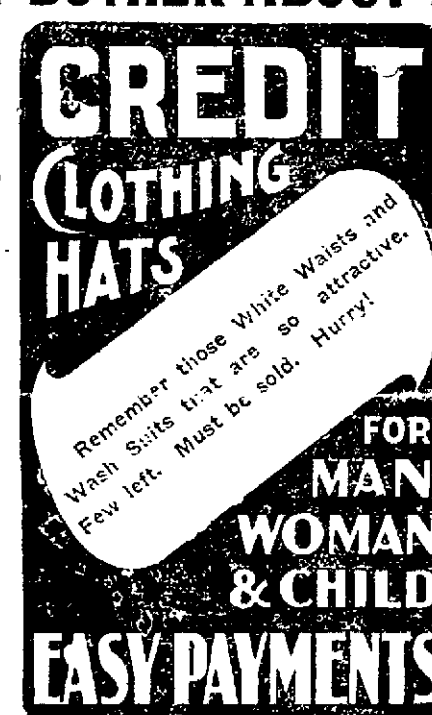

Backache, headache, sideache, Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

A Newark citizen tells you how to cure them all.
Mrs. J. T. Purcell, 245 Schuler St. says: "My back ached all the time. As a rule it was very severe, but hurt me much more when I over-exerted myself or occupied certain positions in which my back was strained considerably or when I was sitting sewing. I obtained little benefit from the treatment I took so little, in fact, that I was induced to try Doan's Kidney Pills when Crayton Bros. first advertised them in Newark. They did for me what others failed to do, for they took away from my back that distressing pain and ache. I know of friends of mine who were as much the gainers through their use as I."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The New Psychology.

To those who are investigating psychic phenomena, nature cure, rational hygiene, the development of will power, the achievement of health, happiness and success through the application of the principles of the New Psychology, the September issue of Suggestion (Chicago) will be particularly interesting. Dr. Parkyn, the editor, shows how Suggestion and Autosuggestion may be used to banish ill health, and several articles relate to the cure of consumption by drugless methods. Other articles are: The Cause of Disease, by Health Commissioner Reynolds of Chicago; Psychological Research, Sir William Crookes; The Breath of Life, Henry Harrison Brown; Are Your Lungs White or Black? Sense and Nonsense about Radium; Common Sense Philosophy, by Capt. L. W. Billingsley; Nature Cure for Consumption, etc.

LATEST BEADWORK.

A NEW AND EASY KIND WORKED ON SINGLE THREAD CANVAS.

Many High Class Bead Bags and Cases Are Not Knitted, but Sewed on a Foundation—Special Design Paper—The Stitch—Pretty Designs.

Just now when bead bags and chains—in fact, anything made of beads—are so fashionable, it is gratifying to learn that all the elaborate bags and purses shown in the high class shops are not knitted, as is usually believed, but sewed, and, what is more, sewed in such a simple manner that it will no longer be necessary for us to gasp at the exorbitant prices charged for them. It is a very simple matter to knit a pattern in steel beads on a silk purse or even to string several colors on the silk and knit them as they fall, but who ever supposed that even a novice at fancy work could make a bag with shaded pink roses, green leaves and borders, all on the same six inches, and still remain sane? Nevertheless, it is a fact that it can be done, and, what is more, done easily, if the right materials are procured and a good pattern secured as a guide for the work.

The designs are all worked on the same canvas, cream colored or ecru, having single threads instead of the double ones used in cross stitch. This can be bought for 75 cents a yard and is a yard wide. The designs are always made on regular design paper, which is very simple to work from, each square representing one bead.

The design should all be worked in first, and then it is easy to fill in the beads forming the background, for these new bags and card cases are all solid bead—not a particle of canvas must show when the article is finished.

The design for the small bag is a good one for a beginner or one who has not much patience, being made up entirely of straight lines, with no shading. Three sets of beads are necessary for this pattern, the black being worked in green, the gray, broken bands on the edges in steel and the remainder filled in with white. Never cut the canvas the exact size to be finished, for in some design paper the squares are quite large, which will of course make a difference in the size of the bag if the pattern is arranged as on the paper. And after the bag is all worked half an inch margin at least should be allowed all round for the making up.

The beads are sewed on with a heavy sewing silk, and a short, fine needle is the best to work with. Take several stitches through the canvas to fasten the thread securely and, taking a stitch beneath two threads of the canvas, string a bead on the needle and draw the thread through; slip the bead down and take the second stitch exactly above where the needle came out and two threads beyond. This stitch must also be under two threads and, threading a bead on, take the third stitch as before, only below the second one and on a line with the first. This will make a perfectly straight line, with all the beads in a diagonal line. If the canvas is at all coarse, the stitch should be beneath one thread only each time.

This seems like a lengthy direction for a simple stitch, but if any one tries to work it out alone she will soon find the difficulties that beset her path. In the designs the colors for the pattern alone are shown, the ground being filled in any desired color.—Designer.

Corn Croquettes.

To one can of sweet corn add two and one-half tablespoonsful of butter and one-quarter cupful of rich milk or cream; stir into the above mixture one-third cupful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of sugar, salt and white pepper to taste; add one egg slightly beaten. Cook, stirring constantly until thick. Turn the mixture on a plate, cool, mold into cork shaped croquettes, dip in egg and breadcrumbs and fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper.

A Simple Remedy For Sunburn.

A successful remedy for summer sunburn in mild cases where the burn is not painful is boracic acid, one ounce, distilled with hazel, two ounces; rose water, two ounces. Apply before returning.

CHAPTER X.
ULL," cried Traquair. "We have been talking of you, my man, and we have some employment for you if you are ready for it."

"Well, my lord, there's no lack of that in these little times, for a fighting man gets civility and a welcome, whether in England or Scotland, whichever side he takes."

"I hope you are for law and the king against riot and rebels?"

"Ye see, Traquair, I'm not just a faction man, but am standing clear, to give both sides fair play."

"The crisis is this, William," said Traquair. "There are papers that we must get through to King Charles at Oxford. Then, what is much more important, we must get his signed warrant back to us before we can act to any real purpose in this play. The victorious rebels pretend that they are fighting for certain so-called liberties, but we have reason to know that their designs run much deeper, that they aim at nothing less than the dethronement and possible murder of the king. It is necessary to get proof of this to the king and to obtain his sanction to certain action on our part, for if we move without his written commission and our plans fall we are like to get short shrift from Cromwell, who will deny us the right of belligerents. Whether the king believes this or not, the documents we wish to send him are less to the purpose than that you should bring back to us his commission, so you will know that your homecoming is much more vital to us than your outgoing."

"I see. Still, if they kill me on the road there, it is not likely I will win my way back, so both journeys are equally vital to me."

"You will be traveling through a hostile country, but nevertheless will find many to favor you, for though the land is under the iron hand of Cromwell, he is far from pleasing all the people, although they may make a quiet mouth save a doubting heart. Brave as you are, Will, it is on the smooth tongue rather than on the sharp sword that you must depend, for, however many silent friends we may have along the route, there are too many outspoken enemies for even you to fight your way through. Have you a good horse?"

"The best in the world."

"The pick of my stables is at your choice. Had you not better take a spare animal with you?"

"No. That would be advertising the importance of my journey. If I can get through at all, it must be by dawdling along as a canine drover body anxious to buy up cattle and turn an honest penny by selling them to those who want them worse than I do, a perfectly legitimate trade even during these exciting times. They all know the desire of a humble Scotsman to make a little money, though the heavens and kings be falling."

"That's an admirable idea, and you know the country well?"

"No one better. Indeed I'll trade my way to the very gates of Oxford if time is not too great an object with you."

"Time is an object, Armstrong, but you will have to do the best you can, and we shall await your return with what patience we may. You will tackle the job then?"

"It's just the kind of job I like. Can you allow me three weeks or a month?"

"If you're back inside of a month, Will, you'll have done what I believe no other man in all Scotland could do. Well, that's settled, then."

The earl was interrupted by a roar from the sentinel outside, which caused every man in the room to start to his feet, but before they could move Angus came bursting in.

"Somebody dropped from the hole on the loft above the stables an' wuz aff ta' the wood afore I could stop him."

"To horse!" cried Traquair. "Mount instantly and let's after him!"

"It's useless, my lord," said Armstrong quietly, the only unexcited man in the group. "Ye might as well look for some particular flea in all the hielan's. He'll have a horse tied to a tree, and a thousand cavalry couldn't catch him if he knows the wilds hereabout."

"Where's the landlord?" Traquair asked. "Angus, bring him in here."

The sentinel left the room and speedily reappeared with a cowering man, evidently as panic-stricken as any of his guests.

"Have there been some stragglers about today?" demanded Traquair.

"Not a soul, my lord, on my oath, not a soul."

"Is there connection between the room above and the loft over the stable?"

"No possibility of it, my lord."

"What did I tell you?" said Henderson, plucking up courage again. "This turmoil is utterly without foundation."

"Dash it!" cried Armstrong, with a gesture of impatience. "Will you take a man's word for a thing you can prove in a moment? Get a ladder, Angus, and speed up through the hole the spy came out at. Take a torch, an' if ye drop a low in the straw you'll no be blamed for it by me. See if you can win your way through from the stables to the house."

"Go at once, Angus," commanded

Traquair; then to the landlord, who showed signs of wishing to be elsewhere, "No; you stay here."

"I'm feared the man will set fire to the place," warned the landlord.

"Better be feared of the rope that will be round your neck if you have lied to us," said the earl grimly, and as he spoke they heard the tramp of the sentinels' feet overhead.

"Is that you, Angus?" asked Traquair in an ordinary tone of voice. "Can you hear what I say?"

"Perfectly, ma lord. There's a very cunning trap 'tween the stable loft an' this, that one would na be foun' in a burry, but the thief left it open in his sudden flight."

The lips of the landlord turned white, but he remained motionless, panting like a trapped animal, for the giant form of Armstrong stood with his back against the door, the only exit.

"Very well. Come down," said Traquair quietly.

When the sentinel returned, Traquair bade him get a rope and tie the innkeeper hand and foot, while the prisoner groveled for his life, his supplications meeting with no response.

"Now take him outside, Angus, and if there is any attempt on his part to move, or if there is an alarm of rescue, run him through with your pike and retreat on us. As for you, you false knave, your life will depend on your lying quiet for the moment and on what you tell us hereafter."

"Am I to be taken away, your merciful lordship?" sobbed the man, who, now that his life seemed in no immediate danger, turned his anxiety toward his property. "What'll become of the inn, for there's none here to take care of it?"

"We'll take care of it, never fear," replied Traquair grimly.

The stalwart Angus dragged the man out, and the door was once more closed.

"I think we may venture to seat ourselves again," said Traquair, suiting the action to the word. "There's nothing more to be done, and pursuit is hopeless."

All sat down with the exception of Armstrong, who remained standing with his back to the door, gazing somewhat scornfully on the conclave.

"You will pardon me, Traquair," began he, "for you know I would be glad to forward anything you had a hand in, short of slipping my neck into a noose, but at that point I draw back. I'll not set foot on English soil now, king or no king. Man, Traquair, I wonder at you! The lot of you remind me of a covey of partridges holding conference in a fox's den."

"I'm not going to defend the covey of partridges, Will. But, after all's said and done, the danger's not so much greater than it was before."

"Do you think I'm fool enough to set face south when there is a spy galloping ahead of me with full particulars of every item in my wallet? Not me! It was bad enough before, as you say; now it's impossible. That is, it is impossible for me, for the flying man knows all about me. No; the proper thing to do is to meet at your castle or some other safe place and choose a man whose name and description are not in the wind ahead of him."

"But I've known you to clinch with quite as dangerous a task before."

"It's not the danger, Traquair, as much as the folly that holds me back. I've been in many a foolish scramble before now, as you have hinted, but I learn wisdom with age."

"Will nothing change your decision?"

"Nothing—nothing in the world; not anything even you can say, my lord. Any tramping ass may break an egg, but once broken, the wisest man in the kingdom cannot place it together again. Tonight's egg is smashed, Traquair."

"I cannot blame you; I cannot blame you," said the earl dejectedly, drawing a deep sigh. Then, turning to the others, he continued: "Gentlemen, there's no more to be said. We must convene again. Would tomorrow or the day after be convenient for you?"

It was agreed that the meeting should take place two days from that time.

"You are not angry with me, Traquair?" asked Armstrong.

"Not in the least, Will. I appreciate your point of view, and were I in your place I should have reached exactly the same conclusion."

"Then I must beg a bed from you tonight. I have no wish to stay in this place, and if you are bent for home, as I surmise, I'll just trot my nag alongside of yours."

"I was this moment going to ask you, for I confess I'll ride the safer that your stout arm is near."

The company left the inn together, and in the middle of the road, before the house, they found Angus, with a torch, standing guard over a shapeless bundle huddled at his feet. The bundle was making faint pleadings to the man at arms, to which that warrior was listening with stolid indifference.

The murmurs ceased as the group of men drew near. Traquair extended a cordial invitation to all or any to spend the night at the castle, which was the nearest house, but the others did not accept. Each man got upon his horse, and some went one direction and some another.

"Fling your lighted torch into the loft," said Traquair to Angus. "That will prevent this wolf worrying about his property. When you've done that, throw him across your horse and follow us. Has there been sign of any one else about?"

"No, ma lord," replied Angus, promptly obeying the injunction about the torch. He then tossed the howling human mass in front of his saddle, sprang into his seat and went down the road after the two who preceded him, the flames from the burning bottle already throwing long shadows ahead.

The Earl of Traquair, chagrined at the temporary defeat of his plans, inwardly cursing the stupidity of those with whom he was compelled to act, rode moody and silent, and this made the young man at his side more an attempt to interrupt until they had reached a slight eminence, where the noblemen reined in his horse and looked back down the valley at the blazing standing, which now filled the hollow with its radiance.

"We will wait here till Angus overtakes us," he said. "This bonfire may collect some of the moths, and it's better traveling three than two."

"We've not far to go," said Armstrong, "and that's a blessing, for I'm on a long jaunt in the morning and would be glad of my bed as soon as may be."

"Where are you off to?" asked the earl indifferently, gazing anxiously down the road for a sight of his follower, who was not yet visible.

Armstrong replied with equal nonchalance. "Oh, I'm just away for Oxford to carry a message from Lord Traquair to the king of England."

"What?" cried his lordship, nearly starting from his saddle in amazement.

"Surely my talk before these cuddies did not mislead you. I'll take your message through and bring you back an answer, if the thing's possible, but I cannot have those fools pottering and whispering in the matter. They must know nothing of my going. You will meet them two days hence, accept whomsoever they propose and let him blunder along to a rebel gallows. It will be one blockhead out of the way, and then wise folk can do their bit travels unmolested."

"But how can I send papers with him when they'll be in your pouch?"

"Indeed, and that they will not be. This night's work compels me to a change of programme. I shall carry no papers with me. If you let me read them I'll remember every word though they be as long as the Psalms. I'll repeat them to the king with as few slips as any man in the realm. If you have a password or sign, or if you can tell me some incident that only you and the king know of, which will assure him that I am from you, everything will be plainplodding. It would be folly for me now that Cromwell's spy is on the gallop to carry a line of writing that bears relation to politics. I'll be arrested before I'm a mile beyond the border, so my chance of getting through will depend on the search they make. If they find nothing it is likely they'll let me go, and I must manage to get back as best I can. There's no sense in being hanged for a spy the first day I set out."

"Armstrong, you're a hero," said Traquair. "You shall read the papers to-night and look over them again in the morning. The important matter is to get the king's commission back to us. Ah, here is Angus with his sack, so we'll say no more until we reach the castle."

A Novel WayTo Fame

(Original.)

Miles Barnicourt, an American youth of a timid nature, but a vivid imagination, with which he was fond of picturing himself as a cowboy, bank robber or duelist, after finishing his education went abroad for a trip. He told his friend before leaving that he was glad to go to a country where gentlemen settled their differences in a gentlemanly way. If he was not properly treated while abroad he could get redress without resorting to a police court.

This meant that he would pick a quarrel with some person before he returned, and he did. One evening at a cafe he noticed a very modern looking man dining alone. Barnicourt, in endeavoring to make known his wants to the French waiter called forth a smile from the gentleman mentioned.

It occurred to the young aspirant for dueling honors that this would be a good opportunity to show his grit. In broken French he asked the man what he was laughing at, making a mixture of verbs, nouns and participles that called forth a second smile, more pronounced than the first. Whereupon Barnicourt seized a glass, doused the stranger with the wine it contained and then produced his card.

The stranger removed the wine from his face with his napkin, then drew his card and presented it to the American, at the same time saying in very fair English: "A friend of mine will call upon you at 11 o'clock tonight. I trust you will be at home." Barnicourt said that he would, and the stranger went on with his dinner.

Barnicourt took the card to an American, Charles Maubray, a permanent resident of Paris, to whom he had brought a letter of introduction. He was narrating the episode when his friend exclaimed:

"Great heavens, man! You've insulted Jacques Verdier, the most noted duelist in Paris."

Barnicourt paled. Maubray asked him if he were expert with the pistol, the sword, indeed any weapon which he might choose for the combat. But Barnicourt declared that he could only use the pistol and that fairly well.

"This won't do," said Maubray. "You can't fight Verdier; he would make mince meat of you in no time. But how in the world am I to get you out of it? My friend Perkins, from whom you brought me your letter, would never forgive me if I let you get killed."

"Can't I apologize?" faltered Barnicourt.

"Apologize! And have it known tomorrow in all the clubs of Paris that an American—a friend of mine—insulted a man and apologized because he feared to die. Never!"

Barnicourt turned several shades whiter than before, and Maubray, telling him to remain till his return, went to Barnicourt's lodgings to receive the challenge. At 11:30 he returned and said it was to be pistols, near Versailles, the next morning at 6 o'clock.

Maubray went out, and Barnicourt did not see him again till 4 o'clock, when he drove up to the house in a carriage in company with a young doctor. Barnicourt's legs would scarcely carry him to the carriage, and once there he lay back on the cushion like a corpse, while the doctor gave Maubray an account of Verdier's last duel, at which he (the doctor) was present, and how Verdier had killed his man. Barnicourt moaned, and the two men looked at him as much as to say, "He's going to show the white feather."

When they reached the ground and alighted Maubray whispered to Barnicourt: "Courage. They are there, as I hoped. Keep up your pluck."

This stiffened the drooping man, and they proceeded to join the others. Three men were in earnest conversation with Verdier. Verdier was endeavoring evidently to convince them that he was in no danger, for he was heard to say, "They are not duelsists in America, and I can pierce a five franc piece at a hundred yards."

"What is that?" interrupted Maubray. "No duelsists in America? That's in the north. My principal comes from the south, where the revolver is as common as a house key."

This had the effect to cause the strangers to renew their protestations. Verdier seemed very much troubled.

"You should help me, Mr. Maubray," he said, "instead of standing in my way. I owe these gentlemen altogether some 12,000 francs, and they having in some way got wind of this affair insist on payment before I expose my life. Bah! What risk do I run?"

"These gentlemen are the best judges of that," replied Maubray carelessly. "I can only say to you, M. Verdier, that if you expect an easy conquest over my principal you are mistaken. The revolver has been his plaything since childhood."

This brought on more protestations from the strangers and hot words from Verdier. Finally Maubray said: "This is an unnecessary affair. May we not settle it? Why, M. Verdier, did you laugh at my principal?"

"His French was absurd."

"Was that all? A simple statement to that effect will lead my principal to excuse your laughing. He does not pretend to speak French."

"Go and ask him!" requested the three creditors.

Verdier neither assented nor dissented. Maubray brought back a conciliatory message, and it was agreed that the affair should be called off. All returned to Paris, and the next day there was great curiosity to see the American who had gone out with M. Jacques Verdier and returned unhurt.

The New Way to Health

With the discovery of VITON, the "New Way to Health," there is really no longer any excuse for remaining sick. This remedy acts on all the vital organs directly through the blood, which is the only scientific way to prevent and cure disease. If your blood is impure—poor in the elements of life—your health is impaired. The Liver, Kidneys and Stomach are highly sensitive. Every disease to which we are subject is the result of some derangement of one of these organs; and the state of the blood is back of it all. Nature has her own way of warning us of the approach of disease. Here are a few of her danger signals.

SIGNS OF BAD BLOOD

Indigestion, Headache, Coated Tongue, Backache, Salivary Complication, Poor Appetite, Exhaustion, Rheumatism, Constipation or sleeplessness.

Mrs. Rebecca Mann is quite ill.

Miss Lulu Bricker has been dangerously sick for several days.

While returning home from Newark Tuesday, Mrs. Ira Smith became ill and was obliged to stop in Granville where she stopped at the home of Mr. McLain. Mrs. Smith is not as yet able to return to her home here.

A number of Alexandria people went to the Masonic picnic at Cat Run today and several went down to Elack Hand this morning to attend the annual soldiers' reunion.

WEDDING

OF MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH EVANS THIRTY-TWO YEARS AGO

Anniversary Was Celebrated at Vanatta Tuesday. With Surprise Party—Fifty Guests Present.

Vanatta, O., Aug. 18.—Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Evans, to the number of fifty, assembled at their home Tuesday to remind them of the thirty-second anniversary of the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Evans were completely surprised, not having had an inkling of the affair. They were the recipients of many beautiful remembrances, such as hand-painted china, table linen, silverware, etc. Conspicuous among the presents was a large oak rocker, presented by the guests, the Rev. J. M. Weber of Springfield, making the presentation speech. Mrs. Evans feelingly responded, showing her appreciation of the present. A sumptuous dinner was served which all enjoyed to the fullest extent and the occasion was one long to be remembered by all present. Following are the names of the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Evans, Mr. and Mrs. R. McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Marple, Rev. J. M. Weber, Mesdames E. Vangisling, R. C. Hall, J. C. Wright, J. W. Shirk, Fannie Fleming, Jennie Vanatta, W. GALA DAY

HUNDREDS GATHERED WEDNESDAY AT REYNOLDSBURG.

Rev. C. G. Doney Was Unable to Be Present—Other Speakers—Election of Officers—Ball Games.

Reynoldsburg, Aug. 18.—The "home coming" was a big success, fully 1,500 people being present. The town was in gala dress for the occasion and the glad hand of welcome was extended to everyone who came.

The platform for the speakers was gaily decorated with flags, and the Euterpean orchestra furnished the music. Prof. G. G. Gantz, superintendent of the public schools, presided.

There was much disappointment that Rev. C. G. Doney was absent, but he had been called away from his home, and sent his regrets. The prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Strain, and then came music.

Addresses were made by T. M. McNamara, G. G. Gantz, D. K. Watson and Henry O'Kane, interspersed with music. The dinner was a basket one, while a number were entertained at different residences.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in the selection of W. A. Forester as president and Miss Ella Jewett as secretary.

In the afternoon there were ball games between Etina and Reynoldsburg and the K. P. and a picked nine. Pataskala is to have its "home coming" next Thursday, Aug. 25.

IS NOW SURE

That the Union Township Gas Well Has a Strong Flow—Mr. Taylor Convinced.

Hebron, O., Aug. 18.—For several days past Dudley Taylor, a prominent farmer living two miles northwest of town, has been looking badly and people were wondering what was the matter, as his countenance expressed a look of fear, giving one the impression that something terrible had frightened him. However the story has just leaked out, and runs similar to the story of the little boy who did not know "it was loaded." It seems that Mr. Taylor doubted the rumors concerning the big flow of gas at the Jones farm, and on last Sunday, after putting a number of fine cigars in the top of his hat, he started for "Squire Jones' farm, on a little tour of inspection. Arriving at the well he found several other parties there, who were commenting on the big gusher, which was covered and chained down with heavy weights, when all of a sudden, without any warning whatever, it blew up, and 500 feet of dry tubing went flying over the derrick, coming down in every direction and tearing down fences, &c., a couple of hundred feet across the way. The men all started on a run. Mr. Taylor, who is fleet of foot, was soon "out of sight." The last words they heard him say were, "Boys, it's all right," and it is rumored here that the least little noise starts him on the run. However, we have not seen him yet, but in his haste we are sorry to learn he lost his cigars.

FUNERAL

Of Augustus P. Stein, Victim of Street Car Accident, Will Be Held Friday Afternoon.

Granville, O., Aug. 18.—August P. Stein, the victim of the unfortunate accident or the electric car line, which occurred a short distance east of this place on Wednesday morning, was born in Bremen, German, in 1834, and was therefore about 74 years old. He came to the United States with his parents when quite young, and settled in Maryland. He had been a resident of Granville for many years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. During the years of his active life he was a carpenter and contractor by occupation. His wife died six or seven years ago, and since that time he has been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. A. K. Follett. Within the past several years he has sustained two slight strokes of paralysis, which affected his hearing and one of his eyes. He was a good man and his death is sincerely regretted. Funeral 2:30 Friday afternoon at the Presbyterian church.

COPELAND WILL WED MISS LASH AT COLUMBUS

Just Three Months After Death of His Wife.

Woman Drowned Herself and Child in Scioto River Last May—Hospital Employees.

Columbus, Aug. 17.—A marriage license has been issued to Mahom B. Copeland and Crestline Lash.

This recalls a most sensational murder and suicide, and it has not been so long ago that it has been forgotten by anyone.

About 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, May 17, last, Mrs. Sadie May Marshall Copeland, wife of Mahom B. Copeland, who resided at 145 East Long street, tied her little daughter Beryl to her arm and jumped into the Scioto river from Rich street bridge. Both were drowned.

The day before Copeland had left the city, saying he was going to Newark, but he was in Cincinnati when he learned of the suicide. It was the general opinion he had deserted his family and that that was the cause of Mrs. Copeland's rash act.

An investigation made by the lodge to which he belonged developed the fact that he had been cruel to his wife and that while they were living on the West Side he had attacked her in a violent manner.

Last winter he suddenly left the city without letting his wife know where he was going and was finally located in California. After he had spent all his money he returned and lived with his wife and child until a day before the tragedy.

Recently he has been employed at the Columbus state hospital, but left there about a week ago.

Employed there at the same time were the Misses Florence and Crestline Lash.

Copeland made love to Crestline and the fact that a license was issued for their marriage indicates that his love was reciprocated.

Copeland has an uncle, W. H. Copeland, residing at 21 North Princeton avenue, from which place Mrs. Sadie Copeland and her child were buried just three months ago next Friday.

Copeland took out a license to wed Miss Lash just three months from the day he last saw his former wife and child alive.

WEDDING

Of Princess Chimay of Ormsby of Detroit—She First Paid Rego $3,000.

London, Aug. 18.—Princess Chimay, formerly Miss Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich., who has on a number of occasions created a sensation by her eccentric actions, was married in the registry office in London yesterday afternoon to Guglielmo Ricardo. Before the ceremony the Princess, in the presence of witnesses, gave Rigo, her violinist paramour, $3,000 upon receipt of which he signed a paper resigning all claims upon her. During the wedding the Princess, who was handsomely dressed and powdered, kept wetting her fingers and her lips and plastering down Ricardo's scalp lock and otherwise fondling him. After the ceremony was over, the newly married couple left immediately for Paris on their honeymoon.

Suicide Prevented.

The startling announcement that a preventive or suicide had been discovered will interest many. A runaway system or dispendency invariably precedes suicide, and something has been found that will prevent that condition which makes suicide likely. At the first thought of self-destruction take Electric Bitters. It being a great tonic and nerve will strengthen the nerves and build up the system. It's also a great stomach, liver and kidney regulator. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Frank D. Hall, druggist.

THE RAILWAYS

ANOTHER FAST RUN IS MADE ON THE B. & O.

Thirty-Three Miles in 36 Minutes From Columbus—Local and General News of Interest.

Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 112, made a record run between Columbus and Newark on Wednesday evening. The train, which consisted of four cars, was in charge of Conductor W. C. Butterworth, with Engineer Joseph Little at the throttle. The train left the Columbus depot at 3:32 p. m. and arrived at the Newark depot at 4:06 making the run in 36 minutes. This is a record that will not be beaten for some time.

B. & O. Caller Hurt.

F. B. Moats, night caller at the Baltimore & Ohio yard office, met with a painful accident about 12 o'clock on Wednesday night. He had started to call an employee and was riding his wheel at a rapid rate of speed, when he struck an obstruction and was thrown to the ground, badly injuring one of his knees. He was compelled to lay off and extra caller, W. F. Sasser, was called to take his place.

E. D. Smith of the B. & O.

E. D. Smith, assistant general passenger agent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, yesterday quietly celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of his connection with the company in Pittsburgh. With the exception of Colonel John T. Lane, traveling passenger agent for the company, of Connellsville, who has been with the Baltimore & Ohio about 45 years, Mr. Smith has been employed with the company longer than any other passenger traffic man. While he has never been stationed outside of Pittsburgh, his work for the Baltimore & Ohio here and for the Baltimore & Ohio there and made him widely known.

Suit Filed.

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—A special in the Republic says: The Missouri Kansas & Texas railroad has filed suit in court at Muskogee, Ind. T., against James J. Julett, a citizen of the Creek Nation, for publication of an allotment.

This is the first of several suits which will be filed by the Missouri Kansas & Texas to its claim against the government to every alternate section of land for five miles on either side of its right of way through the Indian Territory.

In 1886, it is claimed (by the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, that congress made a grant to the first railroad that would build a line through the territory from the Kansas line to the Texas line. There are 3,290,000 acres of land involved, it is claimed, and some good towns in the territory are on these sections.

B. & O. Division Engineer Dick.

Superintendent of Bridges and Buildings Schultz, and Supervisor Heaney boarded a hand car Monday morning and traveled by easy stages over the entire district, with a view to outlining improvements and betterments. By utilizing the hand car, the officials had an opportunity to inspect the road more minutely than by any other method.—Zanesville Courier.

STREET CAR

Company is Putting in a Big Switch in West Newark—Practically a Double Track.

The Newark and Granville electric road have made a change in the running of the cars in West Newark which was noted in Wednesday's Advocate. This change has necessitated a long switch which is now being put in, between Buchler's corner and Pine street, which when completed, will give practically a double track between these two stops.

TRUST COMPANY

Adds $5,000 to Surplus Out of the Earnings of the Past Six Months Business.

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Newark Trust company, $5,000 was added to the surplus fund of the company out of the earnings of the past six months. This makes the total surplus of the company $10,000.00.

In putting its earnings into a surplus fund for the protection of its depositors instead of paying them out in dividends to its stockholders like many new banking institutions do, the management of the Trust Company is doing a very commendable act and one that should be appreciated by its depositors.

NEW CAR

For Fast Service Between Columbus and Zanesville Has Arrived in Newark.

ROLAND LODGE

Fixes Third Wednesday Night of Each Month For Social Meetings—Vacancies Filled.

At the meeting of Roland Lodge, Knights of Pythias, held on Wednesday night, R. W. Lytle was elected Inner Guard and C. J. Baker Outer Guard to fill vacancies, and they will be duly installed at the meeting to be held on next Wednesday night. It was also decided to set apart the third Wednesday night of each month for a social night, for the rest of the year. At this social meeting all members and their male friends will be made welcome. County Deputy Grand Chancellor Henry Pfeiffer made a report on the preliminary meeting held by the District Deputies last Sunday in Columbus relative to the big jubilee meeting to be held in Columbus on November 23. He desires to have one hundred candidates from Licking county attend that meeting. The object of the jubilee is to have 100 candidates at the meeting.

The most picturesque feature of a little mission church in German South Africa is its bell tower. Nowhere in it was there a place to hang a bell. A nearby tree solved the problem. The bell was hung to one of its lower branches.

Icebergs are the product of the Greenland glaciers and are formed by the thousand in the Far Northern froids. As the glaciers sweep into the sea they "calve" or throw off mighty blocks and these are what we know as icebergs.

The United States Fish commission has contracted the small boys' habit of tagging fishes. Metal tags are fastened to marine fishes, which are let loose in the ocean with the idea of identifying them in case they are caught at any future time.
